

Recipe Brownie

Ingredients:

Back to Mmy recipe for brownies! In order for it to turn out like (aka better than) the boxed mix, Michelle uses granulated sugar, all-purpose flour, salt, and chocolate chips. Then, she adds these key ingredients:

- 2 eggs + water – I use a bit of water with the eggs to achieve the moist, gooey texture of boxed mix brownies without any commercial emulsifiers. And because this recipe doesn't contain any baking powder, eggs are essential for helping the brownies puff up in the oven..
- Powdered sugar – The trick to making homemade brownies that are just like ones from a box! Powdered sugar contains cornstarch, which helps thicken the batter without the chemical additives you'd find in a mix.
- Unsweetened cocoa powder – I recommend using Hershey's Special Dark Dutch-processed cocoa powder (I used Whole Foods' 365 Cocoa Powder). Make sure to sift it if it's lumpy!
- Oil – While many recipes for brownies use unsalted butter, I call for canola oil, just like the boxed mix. I use olive oil because
